The tribute was a noble one thus paid to free speech and a free discussion of the great issue of the day. Any one who was present last evening must have been blind and deaf not to have read the augury. Had Bryan Hall been twice or three times as large, it would have been a duplicate or triplicate demonstration, and proof that the hearts of the people are right on this question—that in their view Slavery is dead—and they prefer to listen to those who come to bury-not to praise." Well may Pro-Slavery men grow wrathful, and Pro-Slavery journals strive to stir up the wrath at such proofs of popular sym-pathies. We do not attempt to reproduce in our columns Mr. Phillips' burning phillipies against the great national curse, but we give in another column, detached ortions in his own words, confessing the while the difficulty of making selections. We cannot reproduce the effect of the silveroned utterances of the orator, the breathless attention of the vast audience, and the storm of applause that at times swept sion of Wendell Phillips, pleading and entreating his fellow citizens to spare not

The last-mentioned four divisions, in the course of Wednesday and Thursday, pitched their tents near McCook's, and all will quietly await the completion of a new bridge over Duck River. It is considered doubtful whother the army will be able to cross before the middie of next week.

Gen. Mitchel's division struck tents on Tur sday and moved over the turnpike, on both sides of which it had been encamped, towards Murfreesboro' and Shelbyville, thus forming the left wing of the army. It was reported to-day that his advance had reached

WENDELL PHILLIPS, I OF BOSTON,

The cut comprehends the field of operation on the Mississippi for the reduction of Islam No. 10. An interesting letter on our secondage gives the incidents of the establishing through the audience. We can give enough, however, to show what is the misthe monster evil of slavery, and to evi-dence the spirit in which Chicago has re-ceived him. Here at least there are no mobs. Never was the matter better tested than last evening, and it now stands emphatically of record that such is the case. Never were appeals to base passions more shameless, and a premium on mob violence more openly offered, and yet the vast audience came and went as quietly as to a Sabbath service, and the few minions of the Times slank away rebuked. We have no elaborate comments to make upon Mr. Phillips's lecture. It was eminently patrinot put the salvation of Slavery before the preservation of the Union. It takes the ground that there can be no peace without the extinction of Slavery, whose roots the war has laid bare. Honest minded men are very much of that opinion. Conally F. Trigg, a Union man who got some votes for Governor, in East Tennessee, last fall, has been appointed by Gov. Andrew Johnson to proceed to Columbus, Ohio, and

Why the Merrimac Came Out.

A new and important meaning has been assigned to the raid of the Merrimac. There is reason to believe that the sole object of the iron-plated monster in appearing as she did, and destroying the blockading squadron at the mouth of the James River, was to enable the tree smaller spale results. iron-plated monster in appearing as she did, and destroying the blockading squadron at the mouth of the James River, was to enable the two smaller rebel vessels, the Yorktown and Jamestown, to pass down the stream, and up Elizabeth River to Norfolk and Gosport Navy Yard, where they now are. The repairs made to these two vessels at Riehmond were not of very important character, the crident design being to remodel and reconstruct them at Gosport as iron plated steamers, to co-operate at some time not far distant, with the Merrimac, in an attack upon all the Federal shipping in the harbor. Whether the Monitor would be a match for these three enemies, is a question which should be solved at once by those in authority. The Jamestown and York.

Of course the wisest man in the their minds and put themselves on the record few illinois regiments under his command to make victory perfectly certain and render his troops invincible. There are Farnsworth's splendid regiment of Cavalry on the Potomac, idle and spolling for a fight; Col. Osborn's 39th Infantry, up at Harper's Ferry, Barker's fine dragoons, and the Sturges rifles, a crack battation. These troops are all convenient to the scabbard and might be readily transported to Port Royal and set to work doing something for the state of the time of the continues, members are taking advantage in the discussion. with the response of his constituents to his able but unprincipled speech. Judge Trunbull will reply to Mr. Cowan and the other assalants of the bill when it is sgain reached. The tax bill which is slowly grinding through the House, in Committee of the Whole, is one of the most telling anti-slavery documents ever devised by the wit of man. If there had been no slavery there would have been not slavery there would have been no slavery there would have been not slavery there were not slavery there would have been not slavery there were not slavery there were not slavery there were not slavery there were not slavery the not slavery the not slavery the not slavery there were not slavery one of the most telling and alarcer documents ever devised by the wit of man. If there had been no alavery there would have been no rebellion, and of course no tax bill. Every man, woman and child in the loyal States must now commence paying for the luxury of having neighbors who own and flog negroes. There are nene so poor that they can escape this slavery tax—none so dull that they cannot see what has caused it. Duties, imports, excises, stamps, land tax and the whole category of torments are our penalty for 'the wild and gully fantasy that man can hold property in man.' Before another year passes away the besotted wretches who mobbed Wendell Philips at Clincinnal will have had the price of their whicky doubled because South Carolina had slavery sold wanted more of it.

News has been received from Gen. Milroy's camp on Cheat Mountain. The General did not get his copy of the President's order of Jan. 27th, directing a forward toavement on the 22d of February, until the 15th of March. "Better late than never," thought the plucky Indianian, and he ordered his troops to prepare with the ntmost haste to march into the Valley of Virginia. He was just on the eve of pushing forward when he received orders to attend a militia academy for the examnation of officers, which has occupied his time till now, and may keep him from "moving on their works" till the first of the coming month.

Senator Harian to-day gave Garrett Davis, now, and may keep him from "moving outher works" till the first of the coming mouth.

Senator Harlan to-day gave Garrett Davis, and Kennedy of Maryland, a capital flagellation for their atroctions statement that if the slaves were emancipated the whites in the South would but here them. After showing, for Mr. Kennedy's enlightenment, that there are already 80,000 free negroes in Maryland, whom nobody ever thought of but hering, he proceeded to inform the two gentlemen that they were lower down in the human scale than a pair of Camanches, for the Camanches only assessing the their enemies and never harm their friends. Mr. Davis at last grew restive under the chastiscenest, and said his meaning had been misspprehended—be only said that externination would be the result of emancipation, not that he favored or desired any anch evagery. Mr. Harlan replied that that would undoubtedly be the result if such teachings as these of Davils and Kennedy should be generally accepted at the South. Common people miturally shudder at the twomat largest by fisher public mean in the Sonate of the United States that wholesale marker.

The statement of the statement of the United States that wholesale marker. of the United States that who can be consulted was necessary and how ritable, they might possibly be led even to that monstrons crime, the like of which the world had never yet seem. A poem by an lown bard telling "how hockleline took Manassas" was handed around the Senate this afternoon, and created inextinguishable langhter. A subscription was to have it or inted.

BENTON BARRACKS, March 24, 1882.
The First Wisconsin Cavalry Regiment, which passed through your city one week again to day, arrived at Alton the following afternoon, cheered all along the line by the patriotic inhabitants of Illinois. Men, women and children in town, cottage and schoolroom waving hats and bandkerchiefs, or the red, white and blue, from doors to windows, an noon, but bad management on the part of the Railroad Company—defective engines, &c.,— detained the second train till near night. The componence was darkness overflook as before but the dead which strewed the ground. Let not Southern Chivalty laik more of their courage and Northern cowardice. The thing does not exist, and the street of the thing does not contain the forage in the whole country, our army has fell back fideen miles to Keitsville, in Missouri. However much a backward more may be regretted, yet without the means for a permissent advance, it is bet-ter to get within reach of forage and supplies than to remain in an exposed situation, with no means of subsistence within reach.

Through great tribulation and almost bot combes mud I have made this point on momerature of Missouri. Our force and have the combes mud. Through great tribulation and atmost notionless mud I have made this point on my way to the army of Missouri. Our forces have follish basek to Kettsville, and have selected a strong defensive position. Price has been largely reinforced since the battle at Pes Ridge, and the best informed military men here think his force is fully up to 40,000. Four hundred men, from north of the Missouri River, passed within six miles of this place to reinforce Price, only three days before the hattle of Pes Ridge.

Why is it that the Union forces are left to contend against a force at least three, if not four to one, is to me a mystery. A large train of summnition left here last night for the column, urgent dispatches having been sent by Gen. Outsits for if. Three pieces of artillery, which had been partially disabled in the Pea Ridge fight, and had been sent here to be repaired, were ordered back instructionally, and were sent, distanced the property of the p

his ranks. The prevailing diseases were mumps, measles, and typhold fever, and ane it from excellent authority that out of the have it from excellent authority that out of the large army of thirty or thirty-five thousand, over one third were not unfrequently upon the sick list. Not a day passed that one or more were not carried to the grave, and consequent-ly in all the directions in the vicinity of the town are now to be seen small and smoothly planed boards jetting from the ground. The troops from the extreme South and Southwest lost the greatest number of men, and even when Loring removed his command, a few weeks since, many invalids were carried away in vehicles. The rebel leaders have evidently ender board, and many have been interred in the burying-ground heretofore reserved for ne-groes. In one graveyard, a short distance from the town, on the Strasbury road, it is im-possible to distinguish the last resting-place of the soldier from that of the slave. One grave we noticed here was partially dug, the operations of the digger being suddenly susiest of the new defensive line of the rebels, from Lewburg, in Greenbrier country, Va., to Magaffytown, on the Shenandosh, in Rockingham country. The defense of this part of the line has been assigned to General Jackson, and the greater part of his troops, recently at Winchester and Straburg, are already distributed upon it. Gen. Henry Heth, with his staff and a squadron of cavalry, arred at Lovisburg on the 22d of February, and has been there and at Stanton and Covington ever since. Before the arrival of any part of Jackson's troops he had under his own command the regiments of 800 mon each, making 4,000 troops. With these, and such negro aid as he could get, he has been engaged in fortilying the mountain passes north of the Covingtion and Gordonwills Rail-of the new ones, have either started this seen ment, or have followed somebody who distart it. The Whigs were never as ready or a rapid to see the arrogance and shame of slave; as the Democracy; and this may be a consequence of the differing systems of the two ollowed parties—the Democrats being full of progres and inquiry, the Whigs full of contact with the old order of things, so that they might not be called upon to take the task of thinking out side of their leaders. Following this train of thought, you will see that if Jefferson was the oryponent of slavery, even in his own State of virginia, his disciples, the rankest Democrator of succeeding generations, Bunton, Van Buren of succeeding generations, Bunton, Van Buren HOME, of New York. irginia, his disciples, the rankest Democrats succeeding generations, Benton, Van Saren, las Wright, Francis R. Shunk, William Legitt, Wm. C. Bryant, Hamibal Hamilin, and enjamin Tappen, not to mention the mon of a present and very recent periods, have ken the same course. The Whigs of the States have generally acted with these in, because of their inherent dislike of Democracy; but the Democrats, who to or fought their party on the slawe ine, gave to their new views, asserted for so many trials, intense emphasis. In yiew cases have the anti-slavery Democracy in abolitionists—they were always practical common-sense men, and hence have been most effective opponents of the slave barthein that have marked their pendence of the Democratic organization, use that organization refused to break the PROVIDENCE WASHINGTON OF PROVIDENCE, R. First Canal Receipts.—The canal boat Lockport, of Norton & Co's line, arrived in Calcage from Lockport yesterday morning with a valuable cargo, consisting of 1300 barrels of flour, 19 tons middlings and 830 pieces hams and shoulders, consigned to Messra. Norton & Co., all of which was delivered at Harvey & Co's docks.

Fundal of Capt. Supplex.—Friends, civil or military, of the late lamented Captain Shepley, wishing to join in doing honor to his runnina, which are soon expected here, can learn the details of arrangements now perfecting to that end, upon application to Captain Brand of the Ellsworth Zonaves, No. 108 Lake afrect, or to Captains Guithrio or Bridges at the recruiting office of the Ninoteenth Regiment, Castom House Place.

ingston M. Biodget was brought up on the charge of larceny. A preliminary examination was held, during which it appeared that Blodget was suspected of having stelen three trunks and a carpet bag, with their contents, which comprised a large amount of clothing, fancy articles, trinkets, &c., of various kinds. Indeed, the collection was such as one might which comprised a large amount of clothing, fancy articles, trinkets, &c., of various kinds. Indeed, the collection was such as one might be expected to provide in starting a small variety store. Blodget plead entire innocence of the affair, and averred that the goods were placed in his lands temporarily by a man named Allen, with no felonious designs on the part of the consignee. His statement of the affair was plausible, and may be true; yet there were some auspicious circumstances connected with it that rendered it necessary, in the opinion of Justice Akin, to hold the defendant to ball for trial in the sum of $1000.

Canal Matters.—Business will soon be runewed on the Illinois and Michigan Canal, and among other notes of preparation may be reck meet the operations of the bost yards.

Alge passing overseveral matters regarding the war, the speaker said:

defendant to ball for trial in the sum of $1000.

CANAL MATTERS.—Business will soon be remewed on the Illinois and Michigan Canal, and among other notes of preparation may be reckoned the operations of the boat yards. At that of Messrs. Akhurst & Douglas, on the South Branch, a fine canal boat was launched yesterday, in excellent style. She is called the Monitor, after the Ericsson marvel, and may be accepted, as she will be, by canal men, as a monitor to those who build poor boats. She is probably one of the best craft ever put shoat in Chicago, and is of the same capacity as the Paragon, by the same owners. Her expectly is 6,000 bushels, with the draft allowed by the canal. The same firm have rebuilt the Acadia and the Australia, and turmed them out as good es new. The launch yester-

It is a most serious, natural question, what, we are to do, what our children are to do. It do not believe that this is to be got rid of soon. We are never again to see that republic we are accustomed to. It was a republic, represented by schools, by newspapers, by thought, by patient labor, by the meeting house, by entire and thoughtful brains. To-day, Wm. H. Seward may thrust me in juil for making this speech, you for bearing it. Abraham Lincoln whelds away more despotic than China, but I do not criticise it. I bow to it. But, like all other dheases, I would shorten it. I would give a sick man drags and medicines, but the moment he can have beefsteak, put him on beefsteak. I want plain laws, equal rights, untaxed labor, millions given to toil, notic fighting. [Cheers.] Now that ten years ahead of me, I would shorten I talked with many men in Washington, and each one's belief was, ten years of armies, ten years of armies, ten years of asxation. Slavery would be a little evil if it could be cured in a day. We have planted this wind—we will reap the whirtwind. What have you done? The slave hates you. You have not the republic here in fifteen years, with that great territory to corrupt and drag us down. If you have a policy that shall make the people of Carolins like in thought, habit, and industry to those of the North, they cannot help oming together like two drops of water. My policy is not coercion alone, it is coercion and conversion together. I do not value conquest unless it changes institutions. I do not hate Carolina. I remember that she went through And that nineteen millions of Northern men hitherto snubbed into perpetual minority in politics, are about to take upon themselves the management of their own civil athairs. She knows that that is inevitable death. Demos-racy, like a pyramid on its broadest base, founded on natural justice, is as certain of uti-mate triumph as the existence of God. [Cheers.] It can afford to it evits work themselves out and die in due time. But slavery, however slacere its advocates, they are aware that it is, an abominable institution in the Kineteenth Century, that literature, politics, trade, ideas, the whole dement of motives are against it— that unless it can absorb all the great influoming together like two drops of water. My policy is not coercion alone, it is coercion and conversion together. I do not value conjuest unless it changes institutions. I do not hate Carolina. I remember that she went through the revolutionary war with us, and one hand of Washington rested on New England and the other on Carolina: I remember it all, and the white man of the Carolinas, deinded as he may be, is still the brother of three generations. I hold him entitled to the privileges of Union, to save him from his own medicines. Now, therefore, my policy is, that before Fremont or Sigel cross the Potomac, they write upon their banners. "Enousepation"—[Great applanne] and that the Government declare also that if there be found a loval man in the South who has loved the Union, even in the secreey of his own heart—and I would shut my eyes to any extreme scrutiny of his politics—las we have been partners in his guilt we will be partness in his loss. We will save him as an abolitionist. If I had gone to him asking him to give up his slaves, or if the Government free his elaves, I would say that the Individual should suffer no loss. Now what would be the result of my policy? It would be this: the slave would howe me: I have give him liberty.

unifer no loss. Now what would be the unifer no loss. Now what would be the unifer of my policy? It would be this: liave would love me; I have given him lib Abraham Lincoln sald in Washington, between the aristocraf and the people. It is the inevitable growth of one single institution. It is to prevent freedom's death, it the name of justice, we proclaim death teverything that makes war apon the Republic, and liberty to every may within its borders. [Applause, I believe enough of the North would rise up to as "amen" to carry that Cabinet safely through the war, and after a few years the South itsel would come to us a real, Union band of broth ers, States welded, not chained together, and this fevered convulsion would leave us, not 3 mationalities, but one, great, Indivisible people
